

Equipment Financing Programs: Get the Critical Equipment You Need

Conserve Your Working Capital

The real value of equipment comes from having it in place and utilized rather than from ownership. Financing options allow you to get the equipment you need and conserve your working capital. Acquisition costs are spread over time and can be better matched to the value derived from equipment already installed and in use.

Financing also provides flexibility in your equipment acquisition. Depending on the financing structure you choose, our plans include mid-term and end-of-term options that allow for easy upgrades to match your evolving business needs.

Whether you are looking for an ultra-flexible fair market value lease (FMV), lease-to-own or rent-to-own, FormFactor has you covered. We provide, or have partnered with, qualified financing partners who offer a wide range of financing options to fit your needs. Now it couldn't be easier to get FormFactor's world-class equipment, support and decades of application knowledge with financing options that help you meet your financial and profitability targets.

Financing options are available on all FormFactor probe systems and reliability test products, including accessories and upgrades.
